HONGEONG, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1803.

THE COLONIAL TREASURERSHIP.

The following is an extract from a note sent us this morning by a reliable correspondent:

"It will doubtless interest you to know that the friends of Mr. SERCOMBE SMITH and Mr. A. M. Thouson are both confident of the Treasurership. It is needless to say that both these comparatively juvenile and inexperienced officials are quite ignorant of finance and accounts, book-keeping, etc. The only qualification they appear to possess for this responsible position is in the fact that they are 'passed cadets' and are said to have an imperfect smattering of Chinese."

Rumours in accordance with the foregoing remarks have certainly been current in the colony for some time past. but we cannot really believe that any one in his sober senses could have regarded medicine have you'?" them seriously, or ever contemplated the possibility of such an appointment. On referring to the record of these two officials we find that Mr. THOMAS SERCONDE Surry became a "passed cadet" in 1886, and from that time until 1890, with the Timber and Trading Co., Limited. exception of five months when in the capacity of acting magistrate he turned withe Magistracy into a howling wilderness, he was a clerk in the Registrar General's for o p.m. precisely. Visiting brethren are cor- "You don't happen to have the shilling about whether there was a light near the wheel, department, He has been home on leave I dially invited.

for the last two or three years. Mr. ALEXANDER McDonald Thomson ranked as a "passed cadet" in December, 1890; he acted as Superintendent of the Gaol from April, 1891, to March, 1892, was clerk in the Colonial Secretary's office and acting Clerk of Councils for a few months, and since the Hon. J. H. STEWART LOCKHART was despatched to London as his Excellency the Governor's Plentpotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary on that most amusing, albeit expensive special mission to establish a Chinese coolle traffic between Hongkong and Brazil, Mr. THOMSON has been the locum tenens of the only successor to the immortal Ka, the Wooden-headed. Now, we have no reason to doubt, in congenial work of which they have some practical knowledge, that both these comparative novices in business life are useful and trustworthy officials; but what has really to be considered is whether either one of them has the experience and technical training absolutely necessary for any man to be an efficient Treasurer of this colony. So far as can be gathered from their published records, neither of the enterprising twain has the slightest acquaintance, or has had any experience whatever, in qualifications which ought to be a sine qua non; Mr. Smith is a B.A. of London, Mr. Thomson an M.A. of Aberdeen, but as our are quite ignorant of finance and accounts, book-keeping, etc.," and it is almost invariably the case that a person saddled with a University degree and what is known as a classical education is a hopeless incompetent in the intricacles of general business. The appointment of the new Colonial Treasurer is a matter in which the ratepayers of the colony have a very strong interest and an incontrovertible right to robbing the tax-payers of a sum estimated at over $60,000 but which in all probability totalled four or five times that amount. Books and records that are burned off hand, conveniently tell no tales; but that the Treasury frauds had been going on for the past twenty years at least is about as certain as anything can be. And the luckless rate-payers were as usual the victims. In the Telegraph's opinion the Treasury department should be entirely reconstructed and placed under the control of the Colonial Secretary, who, if we are rightly informed, has ample leisure time to devote to the extra duties. This system worked well in the past, and it was a contemptible job on Sold in Tine containing to lbs. each......$1.50 | the part of Sir "Jaw Bone" which created $4:00 a separate department for the benefit of the late Mr. ALERED LISTER. The cost of the Treasury for 1892 was 827,376, the estimate for the current year is $27,092an extravagance for which there is no disappearance of Capt. Crowlie, of the Chinese | defended. excuse, as we are certain the entire work could be efficiently performed at less than one half of the smaller of these amounts. But in any case the community is entitled to insist that Mr. MITCHELL-INNES' successor must be a thoroughly competent and reliable man who understands the special duties of the department. It would no doubt for obvious reasons be preferable to have a Hongkong official appointed, and there are undoubtedly several experienced mer in various capacities quite competent for the post, but they are not " passed cadets: and on that account long service and approved efficiency go for nothing and are ignored. Nothing can be more certain than the somewhat depressing circumstance that there is not a single "passed cadet" in the Service competent for the vacant post, and against such a stubborn fact the influence of the friends of rival candidates should be of no avail. If the per measem French, goes on to state that slmost posts of Governor, Commander-in-Chief Commodore, Chief Justice, or even Director of the Observatory were to fall vacant, the "passed cadets" would at once take the field as applicants. Could satire on this rotten and flagrantly costly cadet system go any further?

His attention was then diverted to a man who was making a rush on his right side; witness stopped him, and told the men to keep quiet. Those two were all who actually "rushed." On turning sgain he saw Captain Tillett near the wheel. The defendant was then reclining in the hows. Witness went forward, and Captain Tillett called out to everybody to sit down so as not to interfere with his sight of the course. Captain Tillett remained in charge and brought the launch to the wharf. The defendant was not all right on arrival. A constable tried to saise him, but did not succeed. Witness thought the man was drunk. He saw defendant next on Monday, about 10 a.m., in the hospital, standing looking out of the window. Witness asked "What about last Saturday night ?" and defendant immediately sat down on the bed and pretended to be hurt. Witness thought he was shamming, and left the room. The first that witness knew about his being hurt or complaining was on reading the papers. Cross-examined: -Witness had no idea of Witness thus helped to get the man put under restraint. Witness told the man to follow Mr. Fraser's orders ; Mr. Wood also spoke to the defendant; then Mr. Quain also spoke to him. It might have been that Mr. Anderson and others might have given the man other orders. Witness could not say who first gave the order to beave up the anchor, or who ordered half speed. "Anybody might have done it. Witness first thought the man was drunk when he refused to obey orders and anake angrily, and said he had been ordered of arwise Witness made no examination to to if the man was drank ; did not see my blows struck at all, by anybody. There was a reat deal of shouting Witness saw the defoudant being held down on deck, but denly not say by whom. Did not Moody and Sankey."

Mr. Phillippe announced that his case was now concluded; Captain Tillett was to have been called, but was sick. There was already ample evidence to show that Mr. Fraser, Mr. Wood, and Mr. Chaudet were not what Cheung Yau had said. He was willing to leave the case in his Worship's hands without saying any more. Mr. Dennys said that he had no wish to address the court unless judgment was to b given forthwith, in which case he would like to review some of the evidence given for Cheung Yau, now some weeks ago.

" His Worship said he would look over all the evidence carefully, and would give judgment on Monday next, at noon.

well-found tenders here, and the Dock Co.'s tug, Pilot Fish, is under special charter, no official inspection of the building could be effected until Wednesday last, owing to the seas that were breaking against the rock and rendering landing an impossibility. Even then it was effected with considerable difficulty and danger, in consequence of the landing derrick having been washed away and a heavy swell surging up over

The Government officials specially despatched in the Pilot Fish, Capt. Stopuni, to report on the damage sustained, were Messrs. F. A Cooper, Director of Public Works, Mr. R.M. Rumsey, R.N., Harbour Master, and Mr. J. R. Mudic, the engineer, who superintended the erection of the Lighthouse. A footing on the rock having been effected, it was at once Mr. Donnys objected that what the interpreter observed that sens must have broken over the north-east side of it with great violence, for the strong iron railings soldered into the little concrete[causeway, which' joins the two parts of the rock together, and fills up the cavity from which the island derives its name, were torn out and lying about in pieces, while the outer part of the building, in , which the keepers live, was partially wrecked-bugo pieces of plaster having been washed away at a height of at least 80 feet above sea-level. This appeared to have caused leaks through which the seas spuried into the keepers' store-room and damaged their

The light-house itself was found to have fared very hadly in the storm of the 1st and and inst. and looked as though the seas, not merely the spray, but seas, had broken clean over the spiral building, for eight panes of thick glass, the outer casing of the light, were smashed to atoms by one of the seas which put the light out and irretrievably smashed three out of the seven lenses and tore and twisted the brass frame-work and pivot of the burner to such an extent as to conder them useless. Even the heavy hard-wood shutters of the upper part of the building were torn from their rivers and hurled with such violence into the oil-room as to smash several cans of oll and wreck everything in the place. Of course, without the proper number of lenses the light cannot be seen at the full distance (ro miles), but when the one spare lense which has been kept on hand, is fix'd in position, the light will probably be discernable at a distance of ix miles. At present its radius is about eight miles only. The burner of the light was, as stated, damaged, but a spare one having been sent out with the apparatus a year or so ago, it was speedly fixed in position and with it the temporary light is being worked, while the damaged burner is being repaired locally and will be kept handy in case of future mishaps.

Why more forethought was not manifested when the light was ordered from home, we are a loss to understand, for it would occur to alm st any one that weather likely to damage a strong brass burner would be sure to damage the lenses, and that, therefore, if advisable to have on hand a spare burner it would be equally necessary to have at least one set of spare lences ! This was not done, and the result is that until new lenses. are procured from home, mariners will be subjected to the inconvenience of a defective, if

October 11th, 1893. It is not often that the Grim Resper pays our foreign community a visit, but of course these events must be expected occasionally. The latest victim is Mr. R. Hellwig, proprietor of Hauenstein's Hotel, who died yesterday morning and was builed in the evening.

The Municipal Council meeting was held in the Amoy Club last evening, and was very largely attended. After a deal of discussion it was decided that the whole of the properties on Kulangau be reassessed with a view to ascertaining what sum the imposition of } per cent annual tax on it would produce. Should this amount not meet the requirements of our city fathers, other means may be adopted for raising the funds required for the reconstruction of roads, etc. The election of officers for the ensuing year brought the meeting to a close, Dr. Grunenwald, Consul for Germany, being chosen as Chairman. Much dissatisfaction has been expressed in certain quarters that the meeting was held in the Club for, of course, there are many rate-payers on the island who are denied the privilege of entering that institution as members and who judge it to be beneath their dignity to attend any meeting held there. Beter judgment would, perhaps, have been shewn had the meeting been held in the Hotel or anywhere rather than in an exclusive Club. It's but human to complain.

Much regret has been expressed here at the death of General Soon Kal-wha, Commanderin-Chief of the land forces in Fokien, who expired at his yamen, in Churn Chow, on the 7th inst., from an attack of apoplexy. The old warrior's career has been a long and distinguished one; he served through the Talping Rebellion and has since been employed in various provinces by the Central Government. However, it was in Formosa that he won most fame by his gallant and successful opposition to the French in 1884, and he it was who repulsed the invading Gauls with such heavy losses when they attacked Tamsul, or Hote, as it is called by the Chinese. The old General threw up earth-works, mounted guns and fought with bravery and ability. For his services he was decorated with the Yellow Jacket and had numerous other honors bestowed on him. Last year the was employed in dispersing the rebel forces which were reported to have gathered in great numbers in Teh Whs. The incident that directly led to the old man's death is almost pathetic. He had been on an expedition into the country near Foochow and on his way back passed through Amoy only a few days previous to the fatal attack. Upon reaching Chuan Chow he learned to his horror that his yamen had decrease in the number of accidents and losses been looted by his own soldiers and that his tre-sures had been plundered and carried off. It seems a fire had occurred in his daughter's apartment and the "braves" fock advantage of the occasion and sacked the premises. The shame and mertification kindled by the scene were too much for the aged and honored General, hence an apoplectic stroke and shortly afterwards-dissolution.

RACE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

From 1838, the time when transatlantic steamship traffic was established, till 1879, writes Professor Henry Dyer in the Scottlak Review, there were 144 steamers of all classes lost. Of these twenty-four never reached the posts for which they sailed, their fates being unknown, ten were burned at sea, eight were sunk in collisions, three were sunk by ice, and the others were stranded, or lost from various causes. Many of these were small, but some were of considerable size, and their loss caused much public feeling. The first which disappeared was the President which was never heard of after she sailed in 1841. A Cunard steamer, the Columbia, was wrecked by running ashore in 1843. but it is somewhat remarkable that this was the only Atlantic steamer lost in thirteen years after the disappearance of the President, a fact which speaks volumes for the quality of the workmanship of the ship-builders and engineers, and the skill and care of the navigators. In 1854 the City of Glasgow, with 430 souls on board, was never seen or heard of after she salled, and in the same year the Arctic, "of the Collins Line, was sunk by a collision and 642 persons perished, and two years later the Baltic of the same line disappeared with 180 persons on board The Austria, of the Hamburg-American Line, was burnt at sea to 18c8, with a loss of 47t lives.

Some of the most striking losses in the following years were the City of Boston, of the Inman Line, which disappeared in 1870 with upward of two hundred persons on board; the Atlantic, of the White Star Line, which ran ashore in 1873 causing the loss of 560 lives ; the Ville de Haure, of the French Line, which was sunk by collision in the English Channel and went down with 230 persons, the State of Florida sunk by collision with a sailing ship, the Cunard liner Oregon by the same cause with a coal schooner. Statistics show a great during what may be called the modern perior of steamships, as compared with the earlier, and especially with the transition period from sailing vessels to steamships. The record for the year 1800 was of the most satisfactory kind, for notwithstanding all the risks involved; we find that there were nearly two thousand trips made from New York alone to various European ports, and that about 200,000 cabin passengers were carried in addition to 372,000 emigrants, all without any accident. It is an interesting fact to note that in the large lines of steamers the average safety of the sailor's life is high. The late Thomas Gray stated, for instance, that the Union line to the Caps he found that only one passenger died in twenty years, and that four seamen died in three years. In the Peninsular and Oriental only one sesman had died in one year in the forty vessels of the line. and during three years not a single passenger had been lost; the Inman liners had lost no passengers out of 1,000,000, and only eleven seamen bad died in three years; and the Cunard liners had no passengers lost in three years, and only nine seamen dead.

This was a statement fit to make the poor woman give up in despair. Indeed, it nearly did. But the doctor was right; that is, from his point of view. Ho treated the patient for some time. For a short space, occasionally, he relieved her; then she was had as ever. " Once in a while," she says, " my heart almost stopped beating, and I looked and felt like a dying person." This, she was told, was the incurable complaint called anging pectorie; but it wasn't, nor anything like it. Still, it was serious and dangerous. Her letter ends in these words : I had read in a book about Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, and my husband had taken some of it and thought highly of it. But I had not much faith in it. I began by taking fifteen drops, but as this had no effect I took thirty drops and followed the directions. This dose suited me, and after having used up the bottle I felt better. his eyes open, not being creay and not wanting to commit suicide-should walk straight into a canal or a river! Only to think of that, I say! Yet a good many did it in and around Loudon in Christman week, 1891. The dense fog it was, of course, that made them. People could hardly see six feet shead of their notes; may be less at times, and in some spots. For you understand the difference between more darkness and a fog. In the dark, no matter! how black it is, you can always see the lights if thereare any. But a fog! A fog is to have your eves put out : it is blindness. As for shipwrooks and other calamities due to fogs-why, there's no end to them. The London papers have wondered why somehody hasn't invented a way to scatter fogs. Ah, yes, why? Hero's a woman's story about a fog, one of those thick mists that hang over most of us twelve months in the year. Very is. Her spirits were dull and depressed. To be sure.

She had great pain in the region of the heart, which frightened her, so it would you, for the heart is a vital organ and we are properly seared when there's anything alling it.
